

May 2008 Invitation

Time continues to travel ever so quickly as we grow older. The next generation of young men must have godly men in their lives as examples to follow. May 16 at 7:30 in the gymnasium, we will have our final men's breakfast for the school year. The testimonies given by Fred Rogers and Jeff Brandenburg at our last breakfast, left a mark that continues to provide me encouragement every time I think about them.

For our last breakfast, we're inviting the boys of our 2008 Senior class to join us so that we might encourage them through prayer. Our focus will be "finishing strong." Metrolina wants to leave a lasting impression on these young men by showing them how the generation ahead of them loves Jesus and prays earnestly.

If you've not had an opportunity to come this year, pray about setting aside this morning as a show of support for our graduating men. You will be blessed.

As with the last breakfast, if you normally bring your children to school, they can simply go to the Jason Williams Activity Center and remain there until 8:00 a.m. when they'll be dismissed to go to their homeroom. Teachers will be prepared for us dads to come into the classrooms that morning after the breakfast, and pray with the students. RSVP by May 8, 2008, to either myself or angie.sustar@fbcit.org.
